

Employee and Family Assistance Program Frequently Asked Questions & Answers

What is an Employee and Family Assistance Program (EFAP)?

An Employee and Family Assistance Program (EFAP) provides professional, confidential support services including short-term counselling, programs and resources to employees and their immediate family members for help with work, health and life issues.

Is the EFAP confidential?

Yes. The EFAP is completely confidential within the limits of the law. Our Client Care Representatives, Clinical Counsellors and professional service providers adhere to strict privacy and confidentiality procedures. Personal information is only ever provided to authorities when certain conditions—including threat of violence to oneself or others, child abuse or a subpoena—require Morneau Shepell to release it by law.

What kinds of problems or concerns can the EFAP help with?

Common issues that the EFAP can help you and your family with include:

Emotional and mental health
Relationships and family
Workplace concerns
Work-life balance and stress
Addictions
Physical health and nutrition
Career questions
Child and eldercare
Legal and financial concerns

What are the different services my EFAP offers?

Your EFAP provides you with a variety of professional support services including:

Professional Counselling

Work/Life Services that include financial, legal, nutrition and family support

Tools and Online Resources

A combination of the above catered to solving your specific issue

Do I have to come in to Morneau Shepell offices to use EFAP services?

No. Morneau Shepell provides services and resources in formats that don't require an in-person visit. We offer access to our programs over the telephone, online and/or through text-based tools. Your initial assessment will identify the solution that best fits your lifestyle and learning preferences.

What if I don't need counselling?

Your EFAP covers a broad range of services, resources and support including, but not limited to, counselling. Learn more about the wide range of support available to you and your family by calling the Morneau Shepell Care Access Centre, reading more now here or logging in on workhealthlife.com.

Is there a cost to use the EFAP?

No. The cost of EFAP services is paid by your employer as a health benefit.

In situations where you are referred to a resource outside the EFAP, payment for these services is your responsibility. These fees are often partially or completely covered through the public health system, your company's medical benefits, and/or federal income tax credits.

Can my employer make me use EFAP services?

No. Your participation is always voluntary and confidential. Employers can privately remind you that the EFAP services are available if you are noticeably suffering, or if your work performance has been negatively impacted.

Do I need to make initial contact for a family member to access EFAP services?

No. Family members must access the EFAP on their own. Your family member's right to confidentiality is just as important as yours.

Will the EFAP provide service to my minor children without my consent?

Laws vary by province and country. Children under the age of 16 require a signed parental consent form to use the EFAP. Unless the law requires otherwise, EFAP services provided to children between age 16 and the local age of majority remain confidential. Because the successful resolution of a minor's problem often depends on parental support, EFAP counsellors usually encourage the minor to involve the parent(s).
