What is Maple?

Maple is a healthcare platform for fast, convenient access to Canadian general practitioners. Simply tap a button to request a consultation with a physician and connect with a doctor via instant message, audio, or video in minutes. Doctors can provide medical advice and issue digital prescriptions, lab requisitions, diagnostic imaging requests and more.

How do I access Maple?

Maple is available via the mobile application or through any modern web browser. To register, visit getmaple.ca/greenshield and enter your GSC ID number. If you already have a Maple account, link your GSC coverage by clicking here. If you've already set up your account, simply log in.

What are the details of the free program?

Starting December 1, you have free access to 4 general practitioner visits, shared by you and your family, available everyday between 7–12am. This program is free for a minimum of three months, until February 28, 2021. Stay tuned for more information about the duration of your coverage. To add eligible dependents to your account, add their details to the “patients” tab. Then, add their GSC ID number within the “coverage” tab.

Who are the Maple doctors?

Maple doctors are Canadian licensed physicians who are experts in the medical field. They practice family and emergency medicine in Canada. Maple doctors are hand-selected and represent the same providers you could see in person.

What can doctors diagnose and treat?

Doctors can treat many conditions online. 9 out of every 10 Maple patients get their issue fully resolved in a matter of minutes. This includes cold & flu symptoms, infections, chronic conditions, skin problems, sexual health concerns, mental health issues and many more.

Can I get prescriptions or a lab requisition?

Yes, at the discretion of your treating physician. If you receive a prescription, you'll have the option to pick it up from any pharmacy in Canada or have it delivered to your door. If you receive a lab or imaging requisition, it should be printed and taken to any local lab or imaging centre. Results will be uploaded to your virtual medical record. Follow-ups can take place virtually or with your family physician.

Frequently asked questions (continued).

Is there a limit to what doctors can do?

Maple is not intended for medical emergencies. If you believe you are experiencing an emergency, please call 911 or visit your nearest emergency room. If you require narcotics or controlled medications, our physicians cannot legally prescribe these virtually.

Does Maple replace my family physician?

Maple is not intended to replace the care of a family physician. Maple can be helpful for those that do not have a family physician, and for those that do, we provide a way to manage urgent primary care issues that arise when you cannot get in to see your family doctor.

Can I request a specific doctor?

No. Maple selects the next available physician to start your consultation as quickly as possible.

Can Maple doctors speak my language?

Maple is available in both English and French. You can easily switch languages in your settings.

Is my health information private?

Yes, your personal health information is completely private. When you use our services, your session is protected by a comprehensive security infrastructure and stringent data policies. You also always retain complete control of your personal health information. Check out Maple's Privacy Policy for a more in-depth description.

Does Maple offer access to specialists?

Virtual specialist visits on Maple (e.g. with a dermatologist, mental health therapist, etc.) are an out of pocket expense, however, some may be reimbursable through your extended health benefits.

Where do I go for technical support?

If you have any questions about Maple or how to set up your account, you can reach through live chat or by emailing support@getmaple.ca.

Where do plan sponsors go for support?

If you have any questions about the virtual care program, contact your GSC account representative.
